

MICHAEL B. DOLBY

VICE PRESIDENT, CORPORATE DEVELOPMENT

Michael B. Dolby is Vice President, Corporate Development, for Alliant Techsystems (ATK), a premier aerospace and defense company with more than 18,000 employees and revenue in excess of $4.7 billion.

Prior to being named to his current position in 2006, Michael was President, ATK Mission Research, a leading developer of advanced technologies for military space, strategic and tactical applications, and homeland security needs. He also served as Vice President, Business Development for ATK, with responsibility for external growth through corporate mergers and acquisitions and organic growth through business development strategies.

Michael began his career in 1980 as a research scientist with Honeywell. During the next twenty years, he served in several key leadership positions while at Honeywell and subsequently at ATK. These included program and general management, Vice President, Sales and Marketing, and Vice President, Corporate Strategic Development, where he led corporate-wide strategic planning.

Michael was named Vice President, Mergers and Acquisitions, in June 2001, and led a series of strategic acquisitions that transformed ATK into an advanced weapon and space systems company. He became Vice President, Business Development, in November 2004.

A native of St. Paul, Minnesota, Michael received his bachelor's degree from Hamline University. He also attended the College of St. Thomas MBA program and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota Carlson School of Business Management Executive Program.
